experience

Helen's 17 years in corporate restructuring has been spent assisting businesses undergoing significant change or distress. She has advised businesses in mining, health, finance, building and construction, property, retail, hospitality and tourism, and manufacturing.

Helen advises clients on how to improve their business, and its financial management, often during critical times. Her expertise lies in analysing clients' financial positions and designing and implementing programs to improve their situations.

A significant part of Helen's work involves identifying areas of risk and developing effective risk management strategies.

Helen's considerable technical and commercial expertise is applied in her role as National Director of the Business and Reconstruction and Insolvency Solutions division. Helen develops best practice and conducts expert training for our people and clients. Helen manages a national quality and risk management program involving the implementation of business improvement initiatives. This ensures clients are provided with an efficient service that incorporates recent developments in practice and the law.

Before joining PKF, Helen was with Ernst & Young. She achieved the position of Principal and National Technical Leader after many years conducting formal insolvency appointments such as voluntary administrations, receiverships and liquidations, and informal appointments such as restructuring and monitoring assignments.

Helen undertook a number of secondments and overseas assignments, including the National Australia Bank, and projects with the International Monetary Fund in Jakarta and in Bangkok.
